Subject: Call for nominations – UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al-Khalifa Prize for the Use of Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) in Education 2016

Sir/Madam

It is my pleasure hereby to launch the call for nominations for the 2016 edition of the UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al-Khalifa Prize for the Use of Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) in Education.

The theme for the 2016 Prize edition is the use of ICTs in education for disadvantaged groups.

The Education 2030 agenda attaches high importance to equity in education. It calls on the international community to develop interventions and innovations to assist groups that face educational hardships, whether due to limited access to schools and learning resources, low-quality education or other disadvantages that constrain education. The remarkable expansion of ICT and the concurrent rise of digital educational content, much of it freely accessible, has made technology a powerful tool to bridge learning divides and improve education for historically underserved groups, including refugees; internally displaced persons; socio-economically disadvantaged learners; people with disabilities; cultural, ethnic and religious minorities, and vulnerable women and girls. Recognizing how ICT can be harnessed to assist these groups represents an essential step in the international effort to assure inclusive and equitable quality education and lifelong learning for all by 2030, the guiding principle of Sustainable Development Goal 4.

Funded by the Kingdom of Bahrain, the UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al-Khalifa Prize was established in 2005 to recognize innovations in teaching and learning that leverage technology to improve educational outcomes. The 2016 edition of the Prize will reward the organizations and individuals that are carrying out innovative practices to leverage ICTs to expand access to education for disadvantaged learners and improve its quality and relevance. The winning project should also promote the values and attitudes that underlie Education 2030 and the broader Sustainable Development Agenda.

Two prizewinners shall be designated by UNESCO's Director-General on the basis of the recommendations of an international jury. Each winner will receive a monetary award (USD 25,000) and a diploma. Winners of the 2016 Prize will be announced during a ceremony at UNESCO Headquarters in Paris in early 2017. The Statutes and financial regulations of the Prize, approved by the 195th session of UNESCO's Executive Board, are attached herewith for your ease of reference.
