Subject: Call for nominations – 2020 UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al-Khalifa Prize for the Use of Information and Communication Technologies in Education

Dear Minister,

It is my pleasure to inform you that nominations are now open for the 2020 edition of the UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al-Khalifa Prize, under the theme “The use of Artificial Intelligence to enhance the continuity and quality of learning”.

Established in 2005 with financial support from the Kingdom of Bahrain, the Prize rewards projects that use new technologies to enhance teaching, learning and overall education performance.

The 2020 edition will focus on the role of artificial intelligence in ensuring educational continuity and quality learning, especially for the most vulnerable.

The distance learning tools implemented in response to the education crisis caused by the COVID-19 pandemic have revealed the potential of new technologies, especially those using artificial intelligence. However, by exacerbating existing inequalities, this crisis has also strengthened our conviction that further work is needed to ensure that these technologies are truly inclusive. In other words, they must be accessible to all, and adapted to the specific needs of each learner. This issue is central to the spirit of the Prize.

Two prizewinners will be chosen based on the recommendations of an international jury. Each will receive a diploma and a monetary award of US $25,000.

Applications must be submitted online in English or French by 18 December 2020 at the latest. Each government can present up to three candidates via their National Commission, and UNESCO encourages Member States to set up a national selection process and publicly announce the selected nominees.

More information about the theme of the 2020 edition and application procedures are available at the following link: <http://on.unesco.org/abouticlprize>.
